

PhD course: “Innovation, Welfare and Policy”

TIK Centre, University of Oslo, 22nd – 30th April 2024

Teaching plan

Part 1: Innovation and well-being: 22-23 April

Monday 22nd April, 9:15 – 10:00:

Introduction, positioning and overview of the course
(Fulvio Castellacci, University of Oslo)

Monday 22nd April, 10:00 – 11:30:

What is well-being?
(Milena Nikolova, University of Groningen)

Monday 22nd April, 13:00 – 14:30:

How does innovation affect well-being?
(Fulvio Castellacci, University of Oslo)

Tuesday 23rd April, 10:00 – 11:30:

Innovation and well-being: Normative implications and challenges for future research
(Fulvio Castellacci, University of Oslo)

Tuesday 23rd April, 13:00 – 14:30:

Green innovation, environmental sustainability and well-being
(Martin Binder, University of the Bundeswehr Munich)

Part 2: Innovation, inequality and social welfare: 29-30 April

Monday 29th April, 9:15 – 10:00:

Innovation and social welfare
(Fulvio Castellacci, University of Oslo)

Monday 29th April, 10:00 – 11:30:

Theories of social justice: An introduction
(Paolo Piacquadio, University of St. Gallen)

Monday 29th April, 13:00 – 14:30:

Distributive justice and social welfare analysis
(Paolo Piacquadio, University of St. Gallen)

Tuesday 30th April, 9:15 – 10:30:

Innovation and inequality I
(Tommaso Ciarli, University of Maastricht)

Tuesday 30th April, 10:45 – 12:00:

Innovation and inequality II
(Tommaso Ciarli, University of Maastricht)

Tuesday 30th April, 13:00 – 14:30:

Innovation, inequality and social welfare: What are the options for public policies?
(Fulvio Castellacci, University of Oslo)